区域经济融合助推国际基础设施合作新发展

Regional Economic Integration Spurs New Development of International Infrastructure Cooperation

当前，区域经济融合已成为世界经济发展的重要趋势。欧盟、非盟、东盟、拉共体等都是重要的区域经济融合发展的组织。邻近国家和地区间贸易往来、人员交往和资金流动规模日益扩大，既对基础设施的承载力提出更高的要求，也为区域内基础设施的合作发展提供新机遇。

近年中国政府提出“一带一路”的战略构想，正是中国推动区域经济融合发展的新举措。“一带一路”贯通中亚、东南亚、南亚、西亚及欧洲和非洲部分区域，东牵亚太经济圈，西系欧洲经济圈，沿线国家大多对基础设施的需求旺盛。“一带一路”战略将优先发展跨境跨区域的基础设施，大批铁路、公路、港口等项目将加速提上议事日程，区域内的基础设施合作面临庞大的市场机会。

区域经济融合发展由来已久，欧盟可以说是当今世界区域经济融合发展的典型。非洲和拉丁美洲也是较早推动区域经济融合发展的地区，但受多种因素的影响，两个地区的融合发展程度仍然较低，普遍存在的基础设施不完善日益成为其经济和社会发展的一大制约因素。为此，非盟、拉共体都将推动基础设施发展作为推动区域合作的重点，并寻求广泛的国际合作。

区域经济融合发展为国际基础设施合作提供了新的发展机遇。中国是世界许多国家开展基础设施合作的重要伙伴，中国政府通过推动筹建亚洲基础设施投资银行和丝路基金、支持建立金砖国家开发银行等重要举措，为国际基础设施合作提供大规模的金融支持。

在当前区域经济融合发展的背景下，国际基础设施的发展格局会发生哪些新的变化和调整？各国政府在推动区域基础设施建设方面制定了哪些最新项目规划？各金融机构如何进行协调和互补来加强彼此合作，创新融资机制和融资产品，共同支持区域内基础设施建设？区域内相关国家和地区如何在规范、标准和运营等方面进行有效协调和衔接？企业如何抓住这一机遇创新合作模式，提升合作水平，实现业务转型升级等热点问题，将会引起国际业界的高度关注和讨论。

Currently, regional economic integration has become an important trend of global economic development, with the EU, AU, ASEAN and CELAC as major organizations in favor of integrated regional economic development. The scale-up of business, personnel and capital exchange between neighboring countries and regions has not only placed additional requirements for the carrying capacity of infrastructures, but also provided new opportunities for regional infrastructure cooperation and development.

The strategic conception of “Silk Road Economic Belt and Maritime Silk Road of 21st Century (One Belt and One Road)” recently put forward by the Chinese government is the country’s new approach to integrated regional economic development. Connecting Middle Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia and West Asia with some parts of Europe and Africa, extending to Asia-Pacific economic circle in the east and European economic circle in the west, and spanning a number of countries in great need of infrastructures, the initiative will give top priority to the development of cross-border or trans-regional infrastructures. As a good many projects in respect of railways, roads and ports are pushing their way on to the agenda, regional infrastructure cooperation is embracing considerable market opportunities.

Integrated regional economic development may date back to a long time ago, with the EU as an exemplar for the moment. Although Africa and Latin America are also among the early promoters, these two regions are somehow suffering from stalled development and integration, with backward infrastructures turning out a major drag on socioeconomic growth. Therefore, the AU and CELAC have prioritized infrastructure development in pursuit of regional cooperation, and are eagerly seeking international helping hands in such field.

Integrated regional economic development has provided new opportunities for international infrastructure cooperation. As the major infrastructure partner of many countries, China has rendered extensive financial support for international infrastructure cooperation through its commitment to the establishment of Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, Silk Road Fund and New Development Bank (BRICs Bank).

In the context of integrated regional economic development, what kind of changes and adjustments may occur to the global landscape of infrastructure construction? What are the latest plans thrashed out by various governments for the promotion of regional infrastructure construction? How can financial institutions enhance cooperation on the basis of better alignment for mutual benefits, and develop new financing mechanisms and products to jointly support regional infrastructure construction? How do the neighboring countries and regions work together to coordinate and connect with one another in terms of specifications, standards and operations? How can enterprises seize the opportunity to revamp the modes of cooperation for greater achievements and restructure their business? These issues are bound to pique the interest of and ignite heated discussion among global infrastructure industries.

The strategic conception of “One Belt and One Road” put forward by the Chinese government is a new approach to integrated regional economic development. Connecting Middle Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia and West Asia with some parts of Europe and Africa, the initiative will give birth to a large number of cross-border projects in the fields of railway, road, port and energy, etc. Related countries and regions are availing themselves of this opportunity to speed up infrastructure planning and project implementation, and to seek international cooperation in new ways, thus developing and improving their infrastructure at an accelerated pace. Enhanced coordination and collaboration are expected among bi-/multi-lateral financial institutions and financing platforms, so as to design innovative financing mechanisms and financial products, and meet the financial requirements of infrastructure projects. In addition, international contractors are preparing vigorously for the opportunities presented by the “One Belt and One Road” initiative. Through market layout adjustment and business mode innovation, they aim to achieve business transformation & upgrade and new momentums amidst deepened regional economic development. The “One Belt and One Road” initiative, when translated into concrete actions, will usher in considerable market opportunities and a brand-new framework for regional cooperation on infrastructure construction.

Parallel Panel 1: "Silk Road Economic Belt" and Regional Project Cooperation on Asian and European Infrastructure Markets

Along the “Silk Road Economic Belt” which connects Asia with the European Continent, China and other countries complement each other in terms of economic structure. This has further consolidated the foundation for regional trade and economic cooperation, and given fresh impetus to bi-lateral infrastructure cooperation. Under the framework of “Silk Road Economic Belt”, what are the latest projects on Asian and European infrastructure markets? How could Chinese enterprises seize this favorable opportunity to engage in infrastructure cooperation, take advantage of various financial support platforms to expand financing channels and innovate on cooperation modes and approaches? How to deal with the difficulties and obstacles encountered during cooperation? Those topics will be discussed in depth by domestic and foreign guests from related fields.

第三天（2015 年 6 月 5 日）

10:00-12:00 平行论坛

平行论坛 1：丝绸之路经济带和亚欧区域基础设施项目合作

丝绸之路经济带连接亚欧大陆，中国与区域内各国经济结构互补，进一步提升区域经贸合作具备动力和基础，也为双边基础设施合作注入了动力。在丝绸之路经济带框架下亚欧基建市场有哪些最新项目机会？中国企业如何抓住这一有利时机参与基建项目合作，同时利用各种金融支持平台扩展融资渠道，创新合作模式与路径？合作中存在哪些困难和障碍，如何应对？来自国内外相关领域的嘉宾将深入研讨有关话题。

平行论坛 2：能源基础设施 – 大型区域性项目的投资机遇与挑战

随着全球能源结构的不断变化和需求的持续增长，大量区域性能源基础设施的投资与建设迈入全新发展阶段，这为国际承包商和投资商带来更多发展机遇与合作空间。但因各国投资环境、政策指引和市场需求等方面存在明显差异，此类跨境项目在落地和实施过程中存在诸多挑战与风险，为此，国际承包商应与当地政府和本土能源市场参与者建立良好协调机制、并加强与各国际金融机构和第三方顾问公司的合作，从而实现项目本地化运营和多方互利共赢。

平行论坛 3：区域基础设施互联互通中的工程技术标准合作

随着全球区域经济一体化的发展和加深，以及中国政府政府所倡导的“一带一路”战略的实施，跨区域互联互通基础设施的需求日益增长。但是，大型跨境基础设施项目所在区域或国家在适用工程技术规范和标准上还存在很大差别，对各国企业开展基础设施合作带来诸多挑战。面临当前区域经济发展对基础设施投资建设需求的大格局、新形势，开展工程技术标准国际合作，推动各国在重点基础设施领域的标准接轨及融合，有助于加快实现互联互通。

平行论坛 4：跨境基础设施项目投融资模式创新与多边金融合作

大型跨境基础设施项目投资规模大且投资主体复杂，选择合理的融资模式和渠道是确保项目成功的关键。这不仅需要根据项目特点创新投融资机制和模式，并由东道国政府制定法律框架为投融资模式创新提供相应制度保障。同时，也需要多边金融机构、商业金融机构以及其他投资商加强合作，发挥各自优势，共同探索并开发适应大型跨境项目需要的融资产品和金融工具，从而破解融资瓶颈。

平行论坛 5：基建部长与企业家对话会 — 中国国际承包商海外本土化发展之路

工程项目本身具有很强的属地性特点，本土化经营是国际承包商成功经营的一个重要策略。国际承包商通过融入当地社会，充分利用当地资源优化资源配置，可以有效降低成本、提高市场竞争力，同时在参与建设、提供就业机会、开展公益事业的同时推动当地经济和社会发展。中国企业伴随着业务的扩张，普遍重视本土化经营，并取得较快发展。国外部长们如何看待中国企业本土化的发展，在促进当地发展、支持社区建设和与本土企业开展合作过程中存在什么问题，有何意见和建议？中国的企业家们对进一步推动本土化经营有何打算，面临什么困难，希望东道国提供哪些帮助？基建部长们和中国企业家之间将通过面对面的交流，探讨上述热点话题。

Parallel Panel 2: Energy Infrastructure – Investment Opportunities and Challenges for Large Regional Projects

Driven by the ever-changing global energy structure and growing energy demand, the investment and construction of numerous regional energy infrastructures have moved to a brand-new stage, translating into more development chances and cooperation potentials for international contractors and investors. However, due to the distinct disparities in investment environment, policies and market needs among different countries, quite a number of challenges and risks have to be overcome before such cross-border projects could be implemented. International contractors, therefore, have to establish a sound coordination mechanism with local governments and local energy market players, and enhance collaboration with international financial institutions and third-party consultant firms, so as to realize localized operation and an all-win situation.

Parallel Panel 3: Cooperation on Engineering Standards for Regional Infrastructure Connectivity

Along the deepened integration of regional economies worldwide and the implementation of the “One Belt and One Road” initiative launched by the Chinese government, the needs for trans-regional infrastructure connectivity are increasingly growing. However, among regions and countries in which large cross-border infrastructure projects are carried out, great disparities still exist concerning applicable engineering standards and specifications. Enterprises from different countries are encountered with quite a number of challenges in infrastructure cooperation. As infrastructure investment and construction becomes essential for regional economic development, it is imperative to conduct global cooperation on engineering standards and align the standards on major infrastructure among various countries, so as to facilitate the realization of connectivity.

Parallel Panel 4: Innovative Financing Modes and Multi-lateral Financial Cooperation on Cross-border Infrastructure Projects

Large cross-border infrastructure projects feature huge amounts and complex sources of investment. The key to success, therefore, lies in the selection of reasonable financing modes and channels. This requires innovations to be made in financing institutional systems and modes based on the characteristics of the project, and corresponding legal framework to be established by the local government as the institutional guarantee. This also requires enhanced cooperation among multi-lateral financial institutions, commercial financial institutions and other investors, so that they could fully display their respective advantages and jointly develop financing products and financial tools to answer the needs of large cross-border projects and thus break the financing bottleneck.

Parallel Panel 5: Dialogue between Infrastructure Ministers and International Contractors– Localization of Chinese International Contractors in Overseas Market

Engineering projects are closely tied to local conditions; localization is, therefore, an important strategy for international contractors. By integrating into local communities and optimizing the use and allocation of local resources, international contractors can effectively reduce costs and uplift competitiveness. They can also promote the growth of local economy and society by assisting in local construction, offering job opportunities and contributing to public welfare undertakings. Business expansion has led to widespread attention on localization and fast progresses among Chinese contractors. What do foreign ministers reckon the localization of Chinese enterprises and their problems in promoting localization, supporting community building and cooperating with local enterprises? Do they have any suggestions and opinions? What plans and difficulties do Chinese entrepreneurs have in furthering localization? What help do they expect from local countries? Those topics will be discussed through face-to-face communication between infrastructure ministers and Chinese entrepreneurs.

Parallel Panel 6: Presentation of Infrastructure Plans & Projects in CELAC Countries

Relevant authorities or institutions from CELAC countries will be invited to introduce to investors and contractors their latest infrastructure plans and projects, so as to effectively connect project owners with investors and contractors.

平行论坛 6：拉美国家基础设施发展规划与合作项目推介会

邀请拉美国家相关政府部门和机构，现场向投资商、承包商进行展示和介绍最新基建计划和项目，实现项目业主与广大投资商、承包商的有效对接。

14:00-16:30 Parallel Activities

Parallel Activity 1: Building Overall Competitiveness and Revamping Development Modes of International Contractors

International contractors, when developing overseas markets, may often need to adjust and blaze new trails in, among others, business strategies, business mode, financing channels and localized development, so as to adapt to new markets, new cultures and new institutional systems. Meanwhile, the growing scale and complexity of international engineering projects have rammed home the need for contractors to engage actively in regional planning and project development, build up complete industrial chains and business alliance with peer groups by displaying respective advantages, further enhance global overall competitiveness and uplift overseas sustainability.

Parallel Activity 2: Innovative Mode of Win-win Cooperation between International Contactors and Equipment Manufacturers

As the global infrastructure market opens wider to the world, how can international contractors join hands with equipment manufacturers in exploring global markets? How can equipment manufacturers provide one-stop integrated service solutions and complete sets of equipment, based on the customer's requirements? How can international contractors cooperate with equipment manufacturers to better implement and manage projects and to boost construction quality and efficiency? In a new era of continuous regional economic integration, it is of great significance to seek for innovative modes of win-win cooperation between the two parties.

Parallel Activity 3: Mock Arbitration– Dispute Settlement and Coping Strategies for Overseas Infrastructure Projects

The rapid growth of international contracting business in China has sometimes led to disputes among Chinese enterprises, project owners and partners in host countries. More and more Chinese enterprises resort to international arbitration to settle disputes and safeguard their legitimate rights and interests. This year's forum will invite experts to reproduce and offer great insight into some typical cases, and simulate the process of case trial by International Court of Arbitration, so as to enable the operators of overseas infrastructure projects to understand the detailed process of internal arbitration and gain a mastery of effective coping strategies.

Parallel Activity 4: Investing in the United States of America

The China-US investment collaboration meets mutual strategic interest and brings economic and social benefits to both sides. The recent years have witnessed Chinese enterprises' ever-increasing activeness of investing in the U.S. To facilitate the cooperation, Chinese Ministry of Commerce has been promoting a cooperation mechanism at the provincial level between some Chinese provinces and the USA states. Guests from relevant states of U.S. will discuss with Chinese counterparts and other delegates in respect to investment opportunities and policies in the U.S.

Parallel Activity 5: Docking Exchange Meeting on infrastructure projects in CELAC countries

Face-to-face talks shall be arranged between CELAC infrastructure owners and interested investors and contractors, where detailed project information can be exchanged and mutual understanding be enhanced for further concrete action.

Parallel Activity 6: Roundtable on Cooperation between Chinese and Korean International Contractors

As active key players in the sphere of international contracting, Chinese and Korean international contractors enjoy relative advantages that complement each other. Once joining hands, they can expand market scale, improve development and realize mutual benefits and a win-win situation. In line with the macro situation of international market, the roundtable will develop around market development, cooperation mode and other topics, so as to understand future collaboration between Chinese and Korean international contractors.

Parallel Activity 7: Roundtable for Chairmen of International Associations
